Preserving Biodiversity

NORNICKEL

2024-2025:

- restoring the populations of rare fish species
 - conducting scientific research
 - restoring ecosystems
- cooperating with wildlife refuges

Ilya Vasilyevich Shestakov

Head of the Federal Agency for Fisheries

Dear colleagues!

I am pleased to welcome you to the VIII Global Fishery Forum & Seafood Expo Russia!

This key event fosters dialogue within the industry and brings together government and business to address the pressing challenges facing the fisheries sector.

Seafood Expo Russia showcases the latest achievements across the entire value chain – from catch to the production of ready-to-eat products.

Today, we are witnessing growing global demand for fish and seafood, as well as strengthening international cooperation in scientific research and the reproduction of aquatic biological resources. A vivid example is the Great African Expedition – the largest international scientific project aimed at supporting fisheries in the countries of the continent. We share a common goal: to ensure global food security while preserving fish stocks for future generations.

The central theme of 2025 is fish consumption. It carries important social significance, emphasizing the benefits of fish and seafood for human health. This topic will be in focus at the plenary session “Global Fish Consumption: Growth Drivers, Production Opportunities.”

I am confident that the event will provide an opportunity to discuss the most pressing issues, including the modernization of fisheries and the economic efficiency of the industry, and to develop proposals for technological and human resource support, as well as for the sustainable development of fishery and aquaculture.

I wish you productive discussions, valuable business contacts, and successful implementation of both current and future projects!

AURORA

THE PATH BEGINS with

AURORA combines production (PRO), logistics (LOGISTIC), export (EXPORT) and retail (FOOD) into a unified system. This scale allows us to manage complex processes and turn supply chaos into a clear and transparent structure.

We work only with natural raw materials extracted in ecologically clean areas, and ensure their freshness until the moment the product is on the shelf. Our assortment includes shrimp, fish, seafood, canned food, semi-finished products and beverages.

All this is under the control of a unified AURORA system, in which quality and trust are built into the very foundation. We create the infrastructure of the food market of the future, where each stage is ours.
